SOFTWARE EVALUATION

Evaluator's Name: Sharon Eilts

Date of Evaluation: April 23, 2005

Product Title: GoTalk Overlays

Publisher: Attainment Company

Content/Subject:
Communication, multi-subject, life skills

Instructional Design for Learners: This software addresses what type of learner needs?
Non-verbal students with any disability or disorder that prohibits spontaneous communication because of motor involvement, autism, or emotional issues, i.e., selective mutism

Program Design
- Describe the learning objectives of this program.
    - Oral language – communication
- Describe whether or not the program is age-appropriate.
    - Multi-age usage, appropriate for a wide range of students
- What type of motivational techniques does the program employ?
    - Ability to communicate using personalized picture/text
    - Needs met immediately
- Describe the types of skills this program helps develop.
    - Communication
    - Language
- Special Features:
    - Customizable for use with specific pictures or icons
    - Color, size, and font of text changeable
    - Pictures can be moved, enlarged, rotated, and cropped
    - Multiple languages depending on user need (whatever font and language that can be typed into the fields)
    - Can be printed on inkjet or laser printer

Measurable Goal

Write a measurable goal related to introducing this software title to a student/client for whom you think this might be appropriate.

By (date), when presented with 5 photo/text stimuli, (student) will be able to correctly match overlay with prompt on Go Talk 20+ with actions/communication needs 4 out of 5 times in 8 out of 10 trials.

Graphics cou rtesy of Attainment Company website