

SOFTWARE EVALUATION

Evaluator's Name: Sharon Eilts

Date of Evaluation: April 23, 2005

Product Title: Rad Sounds

Publisher: R.J. Cooper & Associates

Content/Subject: Music, Cause and Effect for Teens

Instructional Design for Learners: This software addresses what type of learner needs?

Severely handicapped, MR, Autism

Program Design

- Describe the learning objectives of this program.
  - Mastery of press and hold, press and release, cause and effect pre-computer skills
- Describe whether or not the program is age-appropriate.
  - Designed for teens, useable for somewhat lower age and older as well
- What type of motivational techniques does the program employ?
  - Sound
  - Animation of real pictures, icons
- Describe the types of skills this program helps develop.
  - See learning objectives
- Special Features:
  - Switch, mouseclick, touchscreen or space bar modifiable
  - 3 modes for user variability

Measurable Goal

Write a measurable goal related to introducing this software title to a student/client for whom you think this might be appropriate.

By (date), when presented with 5 on-screen scenes, (student) will correctly press-and-hold (to control animation and sound) for 4 out of 5 in 8 trials out of 10.